

Certificate in Internal Audit and Business Risk

Workshop programme – Wales 2006

At the IIA-UK and Ireland, we know a lot about helping people further their own development and career aspirations. Internal audit and risk management are integral parts of business and it is important that internal audit professionals are trained to the highest standards.

For 2006, we are pleased to announce that the Certificate in Internal Audit and Business Risk will be coming to Wales. The Certificate offers the ideal opportunity for people who are new to internal audit as well as those who are seconded to the function and need to build a firm foundation of practical skills with which to become more effective in their job.

The programme offers a mixture of theory and practical skills and provides authoritative guidance on best practice set in the context of today's business environment and is designed to bring students up to speed in the areas of corporate governance, risk management and internal audit. It takes a skills-based approach to learning how to deliver an audit and how to communicate effectively with clients.

Successful candidate students will be able to:

- Demonstrate a recognised level of proficiency in internal auditing
- Apply their knowledge and skills in practical, day-to-day situations.
- Refresh and update their knowledge in the context of recent changes
- Improve their service to management and add value to their organisation

For those undertaking the full Certificate, you must become a student member of the Institute before enrolling.

The Certificate comprises four modules, a personal development portfolio, and an assignment. The four modules are:

- Corporate Governance and Risk Management
- Internal Auditing – Tools and Techniques
- Effective Delivery of an Audit
- Communication and Client-Auditor Relations

Any of the workshops can be attended on a stand alone basis.
